^a Full model of least-squares regression: F=3.87, df=8,146, p=.001; R²=.183; adjusted R²=.136. Each individual was assigned the average annual treatment cost for his or her most severe health problem within each of 14 health conditions based on actual costs for a multistate sample of Medicaid recipients; each person's costs were summed across condition categories. Individual severity scores were standardized.

b Coded as "high" if the participant had a postsecondary education or held a white-collar or mana-

- gerial job for at least five years

 Coded as "yes" if the participant was homeless at any time between 1996 and 2000

 d Coded as "yes" if the participant had at least one Medicaid claim for treatment for obesity during
- the four-year study period

 Coded as "yes" if the participant had any Medicaid claims for substance abuse that lasted more than five days during the four-year study period
